EASLEY REAPPOINTS DELAGRANGE AND HALL TO SPEECH AND LANGUAGE PATHOLOGISTS AND AUDIOLOGISTS BOARD

RALEIGH – Gov. Mike Easley has reappointed Dr. Teryl N. Delagrange of Greensboro and Dr. Terry A. Hall of New Bern to the North Carolina Speech and Language Pathologists and Audiologists Board of Examiners.

Delagrang has been a board member since 2000. He is a clinical audiologist at Greensboro Ear, Nose and Throat Associates. He is an adjunct professor in the N.C. Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. Delagrang received recognition from the American Academy of Audiology in 1999 and was named Audiologist of the Year in 1988 by the Audiological Resource Association. He received his bachelor's degree and master's in audiology from the University of Akron and his doctor of audiology from the University of Florida.

Hall has been a board member since 2002. He is the director of audiological services at Coastal ENT Associates, a position he has held since 1980. Hall is a fellow of the American Academy of Audiology and a past president of both the American Academy of Audiology's North Carolina Chapter and the N.C. Academy of Hearing Rehabilitation. He received both his bachelor's degree in education and his master's in audiology from the University of Mississippi and received a doctor of audiology from the University of Florida.

The board helps safeguard the public from unauthorized persons and unprofessional conduct on the part of speech language pathologists and audiologists in North Carolina. The board must assure the availability of the highest possible quality service to people who have difficulty communicating with others. There are seven members on the board, each serving a 3-year term. The governor appoints all members.
